SHARP CLASHES IN PALESTINE

ARABS ATTACKING MILITARY POSTS

CONTINUE BOMBING IN MANY DISTRICTS

Jerusalem, May 29. After two days' respite from wearing steel helmets, this heavy gear has been resumed by police and troops following a number of serious incidents.

A bomb exploded during the night in the District Commissioner's offices at Haifa, damaging furniture and smashing windows. Several arrests were made.

Several bombs exploded in and around Acre.

A party of British constables had a narrow escape when patrolling by automobile south of Jaffa. They were fired upon from ambush, and two bullets passed through the car without hitting the occupants.

A party of Royal Scots Fusiliers, guarding a post near Jaffa, were heavily stoned by Arabs. They opened fire and wounded two of their assailants.

Sniping and bomb-throwing is also prevalent in Jaffa, where the military and police were compelled to use Lewis guns to quell disorders.

A large band fired upon the military railway patrol at Roshelim, from both sides of the line, but fled when the troops opened fire.

An Arab was severely wounded at Haifa through the explosion of a bomb which, it is believed, he was carrying.

A number of Arabic and Jewish newspapers have been suspended for spreading allegedly false information.—Reuter.

Martial Law Nearer

Jerusalem, May 29.

British troops fought pitched battles with Arabs at Jaffa, Ramle and Haifa to-day, bringing martial law closer and causing the authorities to order aeroplanes and tanks to be added to the city's defensive equipment.

It is officially reported that Arabs attacked a military patrol near Jaffa and the troops opened fire with machine-guns, inflicting several casualties.

Numerous Arabs were wounded when troops guarding the Ramle post office fired a volley as demonstrators attacked them with rifles and bombs.

The District Commissioner's office at Haifa was bombed. There were no casualties.

There were several cases of bombing of troops and police in Jaffa, but no casualties have been reported.—United Press.

Developing Tel Aviv

Jerusalem, May 29.

A big corporation has been formed to handle lightering and landing business at Tel Aviv.

The development of the port has been hastened by the strike of workers at Jaffa where steamers are no longer calling.—Reuter Bulletin Service.

Situation Improved

London, May 29.

The Dominions Secretary made statement in the House of Commons to-day on the situation in Palestine. He said that while some measure of disturbance was still reported in various parts of the country, he was glad to say that the general situation had shown a distinct improvement in the last two or three days.

Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, referred with regret to the shooting in the old city of Jerusalem yesterday of a British constable, and went on to state that the High Commissioner was satisfied forces at his disposal were at present adequate.

Reports that another additional battalion had been sent to Palestine from Egypt were without foundation.

Alluding to the announcement in the press that tear gas was being held in reserve by the Palestine police for use in certain contingencies in suppression of civil disorder, he informed the House that the High Commissioner had published a statement for the information of the public in Palestine reassuring them as to the non-lethal and entirely harmless nature of the vapour to be employed and explaining its use had only been authorised should the occasion arise in order to avoid, as far as possible the necessity for employing measures for preservation of law and order that might result in loss of life or serious injury.—British Wireless.

SUPPORT FROM S. AMERICA

Geneva, May 29. The Argentine Government has requested an extraordinary meeting of the League of Nations' Assembly in June to consider the sanctions problem and also the situation created by the annexation of Ethiopia by Italy and reform of the League.

It is understood the Argentine Government has sounded other Latin American states and is assured of their support in opposing recognition of Ethiopia's annexation.—Reuter.

The Filipinos, who will be passing through Hongkong on Monday en route to Berlin will oppose the Colony team at the V.R.C. at 6 o'clock Monday evening in a programme consisting of five events. It promises to be one of the first aquatic shows Hongkong has ever enjoyed.

The nominated teams and full programme appear on page 12.

London, May 29. His Majesty the King has signified his intention of altering the statutes of the Royal Victorian Order to permit admission of ladies.—Reuter.

STOP PRESS

Shanghai, May 30. Reports from Tientsin state that a railway bridge was bombed and destroyed last night at Chunchengchen, between Tientsin and Tungku.

Japanese troop reinforcements on their way to garrison points in China have been held up and the Tungku train service is disrupted.—Reuter.

POLICE AND ARAB RIOTERS FACE ONE ANOTHER

A tense moment in the streets of Tel Aviv above, shows lines of police, supported by mounted men, preparing to disperse a dangerous mob. It is in such situations as this that snipers and bomb-throwers join in the fight against authority. Note police officers' shields, with which they guard themselves against hail of missiles thrown by rioters.

SPEEDING ACROSS ATLANTIC

QUEEN MARY LOGS 747 MILES IN DAY

CANNOT CLAIM RECORD

London, May 29. Reuter's special correspondent aboard the Queen Mary reports that the ship has logged 747 miles in the last day. Her average speed was 29.88 knots per hour.

The Normandie's best distance on her Atlantic voyages was 744 miles in a day.

However, the Queen Mary's time cannot be called a record for owing to the fact that the clocks were put back an hour the big ship actually had twenty-five hours in which to beat the French liner's mileage.

Captain Sir Edgar Britten declared himself completely satisfied with his ship's performance.

He is pleased, too, with the weather remarking: "We seamen say the Atlantic is nine months water and three months fog."

A stowaway has been found aboard. He is Frank Gardner, 41-year-old Cardiff man, who was discovered after the ship sailed. He is working his passage as a kitchen hand.—Reuter.

NOT AFTER RECORD

Aboard the Queen Mary, May 29. A fresh north-east breeze is blowing to-day and the sea is moderate.

The Queen Mary travelled 747 miles in the last 24 hours, averaging 29.88 knots per hour, and she thus has an excellent chance of a record since her engines are still not let out.

However, the master adheres to his original assertion that he is making the voyage according to a schedule, and is not attempting a record until the engines have had a thorough work-out.—United Press.

AMY MOLLISON REWARDED

ROYAL AERO CLUB GOLD MEDAL

London, May 29. Mrs. Amy Mollison, famous woman flier, has been awarded the Royal Aero Club's gold medal in recognition of her many record-breaking flights throughout the Empire.

Mrs. Mollison's last flying venture was to Capetown. She smashed the record for that flight in a solo dash of 14 hours and 20 minutes, which is impossible since French devaluation talk is growing. Some monetary die-hards have even said that devaluation might solve the situation.

The Bank of France's statement for the week ended May 22 has indicated that the flight of capital from France has eased. However, there are conservative financial editors here, who hitherto have not mentioned devaluation, now openly discussing its possibilities as a remedy for financial ill in view of the incoming Government's public works programme.

Financial experts say that an internal loan is materially and psychologically impossible due to the scarcity of funds on the Paris market.

ST. LOUIS CONTINUES TO LEAD

GIANTS PRESSING CLOSE

TIGERS BEST WHITE SOX

New York, May 29.

The New York Giants played the Braves to-day, making up somewhat for their double-header defeat yesterday by scoring fifteen runs on twenty hits, while the Braves went through a listless nine innings in which they hit but twice and could not score a run. There were no errors.

Chuck Klein homered for Philadelphia against Brooklyn and helped to win the game, ten to two. The Phillies hit eleven times. And they had five errors. Brooklyn hit six, and had three errors.

St. Louis kept pace with New York, and incidentally its position at the top of the League by beating Pittsburgh, nine to seven. Collins and Mize homered, and turned eight hits into nine runs. St. Louis was lucky to win. They had three errors.

Pittsburgh could only score seven on fifteen hits.

Chicago Cubs, meanwhile, won on Cincinnati's errors. They hit seven to score eight runs. The Reds hit seven and only scored one. Cubs had one error.

There was only one game in the American League to-day. Detroit scored a four to three win over the White Sox, hitting eleven, one of them Gostin's homer, to eight. Chicago had no errors, the Tigers one.—Reuter.

U.S. MONEY TO HELP FRANCE?

TALK OF LOAN OF $1,000,000,000

DEVALUATION DANGERS

Paris, May 29. Financial circles here are discussing the possibility of the new French Government seeking a $1,000,000,000 loan from the United States in an effort to solve France's tangled fiscal problems.

However, the success of such possible negotiations is being questioned because of the Johnson Act which prohibits the United States from making loans to countries defaulting in debt.

In this connection it has been recalled that the French Premier Elect, M. Leon Blum, recently hinted his readiness to settle the French war debt.

It is considered likely, in any event, that the United States would demand a gold clause guarantee for the loan. In many quarters the belief is growing expressed since French devaluation talk is growing. Some monetary die-hards have even said that devaluation might solve the situation.

The Bank of France's statement for the week ended May 22 has indicated that the flight of capital from France has eased. However, there are conservative financial editors here, who hitherto have not mentioned devaluation, now openly discussing its possibilities as a remedy for financial ill in view of the incoming Government's public works programme.

Washington, May 29.

coupled with the mounting hoarding of capital.

Such an effort, they say, would be certain to lead to the new Government's defeat and end in market paralysis.

In an illustration, they pointed out that the Bank of France's losses over 14 months totalled 25,000,000,000 francs. Also savings bank deposits declined by 900,000,000 francs, while it is estimated that 40,000,000,000 francs in notes and gold are being hoarded.—United Press.

Japan Asked To Assist In Narcotic War

PENALTIES FOUND INADEQUATE

BIG TRAFFIC IN CHINA

Geneva, May 29.

The Opium Committee of the League of Nations has passed a resolution requesting the Japanese Government "to redouble its efforts and take such action as may be necessary, to apply to all persons under Japanese jurisdiction, wherever they may be, who engage in the illicit traffic in or manufacture of narcotic drugs, penalties which are likely to act as effective deterrents."

The Committee has based its appeal on the fact that the situation in China represents "not only a serious menace to China, but also to the world."

"The seriousness of the situation in China is partly due to the fact that the maximum penalties which can be imposed under Japanese law, on traffickers of Japanese nationality have proved totally inadequate to serve as deterrents to prevent the illicit traffic."—Reuter.

1,600 SHELLS A MINUTE!

GUN MAKES FLEET SAFE FROM AIR

THE BRITISH ADMIRALTY IS EMBARKING ON A BIG SCHEME TO MAKE THE ENTIRE FLEET PROOF AGAINST AIR ATTACK.

The decks of every battleship and cruiser will be reinforced with an extra layer of armour plating and vulnerable points will be specially strengthened.

Unnecessary equipment will be removed from the top deck to make room for anti-aircraft guns of the Admiralty's own design, reputed to be the finest in the world.

These guns have eight barrels, each of which can fire 200 shells a minute; thus each gun can pump 1,600 shells a minute at an aerial attacker.

THE OFFENSIVE

The Admiralty believes that when this re-equipment is finished it will be impossible for an enemy plane effectively to bomb a British warship.

At the same time, so that warships can take the offensive against enemy planes as well as put up an adequate defence, all battleships and cruisers are to be equipped with aeroplanes of their own—two to a battleship, one to a cruiser.

Lion Kills Tamer As 1,000 Watch

Paris, May 18. CHARLES HULIN, lion tamer, lost his life to one of his beasts at a menagerie in Paris to-night as nearly a thousand men, women and children watched.

The performance in the Place de la Nation was ending when suddenly one of the lions named Choura leaped at Hulin and seized his head.

Women fainted, children cried out in terror, assistants tried to beat off the animal. In vain. Five minutes passed before Choura, growling fiercely, was driven away and the body was recovered.

She is a niece of the Duke and Duchess of Kent, who went specially to Belgrade for the birth on April 7. Prince Olga and the Duchess of Kent are sisters.

The baby princess was christened to-day at the White Lodge, Prince Paul's all-white palace in the Belgrade suburbs, by Orthodox Serbian patriarch Dr. Varnava.

Queen Mary and the Duke of Kent, the godparents, are two of the godparents.

Mother and father were present at the ceremony, at which Queen Marie of Jugoslavia, dressed in white, held the baby.

America Honours War Dead

New York, May 30. Memorial Day, devoted to honouring the memory of the nation's war dead, was observed to-day in northern states of the United States.

Southern States do not participate in the observance, because the day originally was dedicated to northern soldiers who died in the war with the Southern Confederacy over the issues of slavery and cessation from the Union.

New York held its usual parade in surviving soldiers of the Civil War occupied places of honour.

Similar parades were held in virtually every city in the north.

The custom of decorating the graves of war dead was followed here as well as in cemeteries on foreign soil.

The first Memorial Day, or Decoration Day as it is known in some states, was held in 1866 by an order of Commander-in-chief John

Logan of the Grand Army of the Republic, organization of northern Civil War veterans, designating May 30 "for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion."

Rhode Island made it a legal holiday in 1874; Vermont in 1879, and New Hampshire in 1877. By 1910 it was a legal holiday in all states and territories except Alabama, Alaska, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Texas. In Virginia, May 30 is observed as a Confederate Memorial Day. June 3, the birthday of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, is observed as Confederate Memorial Day in Louisiana and Tennessee; April 26, in Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Mississippi and May 10 in North Carolina and South Carolina. —United Press.

WHY HE WANTS A DIVORCE

WIFE'S CRAZE IS TOO EXPENSIVE

PARIS, MAY 20.
IN THE MATRIMONIAL COURT
FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF THE SEINE, THE WELL-KNOWN BARRISTER MAITRE JEAN LOUIS AUJOL, HAS JUST PLEADED ONE OF THE STRANGEST DIVORCES EVER PRESENTED.

He represents a city businessman (under French law names may not be published in divorce suits) who has separated from his wife and seeks dissolution of the marriage because of her incurable passion for consulting fortune-tellers regarding every phase of their lives!

One of the complaints was that though the husband was well-to-do he could not stand the expense incurred by his wife in consulting fashionable clairvoyantes and other seers whose fees ranged around 500 francs a time.

DISMAL PREDICTIONS

He also urged that life in the home circle had become impossible for him owing to this weakness of his wife.

When he undertook financial transactions on the Bourse that he felt sure would bring profit, he was faced with the contrary predictions of the oracles his wife had consulted. Then, too, the predictions were generally so dismal that his wife's health suffered, and in consequence he had to pay heavy doctor's bills.

Even when he had made plans for the annual holiday, the wife came back from the favourite fortuneteller with the prediction that either the place or the date chosen would bring misfortune.

The only thing the fortunetellers could not tell her was that they would bring to her and her husband the misfortune of breaking up a home that had been happy until this craze came to the wife. Not unnaturally, the court asked for time to consider this entirely novel basis for a divorce, and between now and the next hearing the judge will interview the parties in the hope of reconciling them by inducing the wife to give up her passion for prying into the future in crystals or through the cards of the fortunetellers.

Young English Girl Victim Of "Bluebeard"

LURED TO LONELY CASTLE

A SEARCH EXTENDING ALL OVER EUROPE FOR SEVEN MONTHS HAS AT LAST BROUGHT THE SURETE-NATIONALE (FRENCH SCOTLAND YARD) DEFINITE EVIDENCE OF THE FATE OF MISS MABEL WHITE, AN ENGLISH GOVERNESS.

IT is established beyond all doubt, as the result of inquiries set on foot by the French police at the instance of her relatives, living in Devonshire, that Miss White was the unknown Englishwoman figuring among the victims of the Hungarian Bluebeard, Karl Kraatzl, known as the Dandy Don Juan, who is now awaiting trial for the murder of a number of "fiancées" not yet established by the police of Budapest.

Miss White, an attractive young woman, had been for five years the governess of M. Leon Creill's children, residing in one of the Paris suburbs.

At the end of the summer of last year she left Paris for a short holiday, and it was understood she was going to Budapest to visit her "fiancee."

The name of the man was not disclosed, but it was supposed that she had known him in England.

Shortly after her departure the children of M. Creill received postcards from Miss White saying that she was starting for a tour of the Italian lakes, and some time later the family received a telegram saying that Miss White would not return to Paris.

DANDY DON JUAN

Nothing more was heard of her, and a few weeks ago her family became anxious about her silence, and wrote to the Creill family, who placed the matter in the hands of the police.

Inquiries immediately followed, and from Budapest it was learned that Miss White had, in fact, left Hungary with the intention of making a tour of Italy and other European countries in the company of a man.

Inquiries extended to Italy, Roumania, Switzerland, Germany, Austria and Belgium, but the trail led back to Budapest again with the result now recorded.

It appears that the Dandy Don Juan had inserted an advertisement in a French journal, and in this way had got into communication with Miss White, to whom he represented himself as the last survivor of a famous Hungarian noble family, anxious to marry a foreign girl in preference to one of his own race.

The pair corresponded for some time and finally it was arranged that Miss White should go to Budapest to see her correspondent.

It is believed that after the tour in Italy she was induced on some pretext to visit the lonely castle in the woods some distance from Budapest, where the Dandy Bluebeard was.

of luring his victims.

The police have traced the driver of the car in which they journeyed to the castle, but after the arrival there was no further trace of her.

When Kraatzl was arrested a few weeks ago, it was established by the police that there had been at least one Englishwoman among his victims; and the examination of her effects ordered by the police directing the search for Miss White has established definitely that she was that victim.

AND 84 RAZOR
BLADES

Calcutta, May 18.

DURING an operation at the Calcutta Medical College Hospital the following articles were removed from Mr. E. J. H. Drummond, of Waterford, Ireland, a former non-commissioned officer in the Inniskilling Fusiliers:—

84 razors; Several hundred 115 4in. nails; 115 2in. nails; 115 1in. needles; Broken glass; Metal filings.

The total weight was 10lb., and Mr. Drummond is to-day recovering after what is described as the most dangerous operation ever performed in India.

Under the professional name of Chamison he has toured the country for years giving demonstrations of swallowing such things as nails, glass, and glass. He claims that his immunity from injury has been due to secrets learned while studying Yoga, the mystical cult of Indian ascetics.

DOCTOR ASTOUNDED

The operator followed an accident during a performance at Patna and lasted for six hours. Dr. Panchaman Chatterji, said he was astounded at the man's recovery.

Mr. Drummond said that after he left the Army he met a Yogi (a devotee of Yoga) in a train, and learned breathing concentration and the secret of using herbs, enabling him to give amazing performances and to baffle the medical profession.

He refused to reveal his method, but insisted that anybody with patience to study Yoga could accomplish many things impossible to the layman.

SIR THOMAS COMYN-PLATT, on a mission to Malaya for the preservation of rare Empire fauna, and carrying in his pocket a letter from the King, narrowly escaped death when he came face to face on a jungle path with one of the Empire's rarest wild beasts—the seladang.

Experienced big-game hunters in Malaya cannot understand how he escaped being gored to death.

Sir Thomas Comyn-Platt was in the King George V National Park, a vast jungle reserve for fauna, set aside by the Sultans of Pahang and Trengganu during the Silver Jubilee as a demonstration of patriotism to the Crown, and was watching the antics of deer and monkeys.

MRS. L. GUINNESS TO MARRY PRINCE ALY KHAN

Mrs. Loel Guinness is to marry Prince Aly Khan, son of the Aga Khan.

The marriage will probably take place in Paris during the next few weeks.

On November 4 last year Mrs. Guinness's husband, Mr. Thomas Loel Evelyn Bulkeley Guinness, M. P. for the city of Bath, was granted a decree nisi. Prince Aly Khan was co-respondent and the suit was not defended.

Mrs. Loel Guinness said: "The divorce decree has not yet been made absolute. Until it is made absolute Prince Aly Khan and I can not make any definite arrangements for our marriage."

"The decree should be made absolute within the next week or two, and we then intend to get married. The marriage will probably take place in Paris."

Before her marriage to Mr. Loel Guinness, in July 1927, Mrs. Guinness was Miss Joan Yardle-Buller, daughter of Lord and Lady Churton. Lady Churton afterwards became Mrs. Theodore Wessel.

Mother Is Third Woman Reprieved By King Edward

The Home Office has recommended the king to respite the death sentence passed on Mrs. Gladys Amella Varley, aged twenty-six, of Dover, with a view to its being commuted to penal servitude for life.

Mrs. Varley was found guilty of murdering David Varley, one of her five-months-old twin sons.

She is the third woman to be reprieved by King Edward. The other cases were those of Mrs. Carmen Alfee Swann, aged thirty-two, and Mrs. Jutta Wood-Murray, aged thirty-three, of Holland-road, Brixton, S.W.

Under the professional name of Chamison he has toured the country for years giving demonstrations of swallowing such things as nails, glass, and glass. He claims that his immunity from injury has been due to secrets learned while studying Yoga, the mystical cult of Indian ascetics.

DOCTOR ASTOUNDED

The operator followed an accident during a performance at Patna and lasted for six hours. Dr. Panchaman Chatterji, said he was astounded at the man's recovery.

Mr. Drummond said that after he left the Army he met a Yogi (a devotee of Yoga) in a train, and learned breathing concentration and the secret of using herbs, enabling him to give amazing performances and to baffle the medical profession.

He refused to reveal his method, but insisted that anybody with patience to study Yoga could accomplish many things impossible to the layman.

JONKER DIAMOND TOO COSTLY TO SELL

LLOYD'S REFUSAL OF DAMAGE RISK

New York, May 20.

The famous Jonker diamond, the fourth largest in the world, has had to be cut into pieces because no one would pay enough for the stone intact.

Mr. Harry Winston, the New York diamond dealer, who bought the gem for £150,000 in London a year ago, has had it broken into three pieces. From these, 12 smaller stones will be made.

After months of careful study, Lazare Kaplan, an expert cleaver of diamonds, was entrusted with the task. When he struck the blow which split the Jonker he was alone with his son Leo in his little workshop.

So great was the danger that the first blow might shatter the diamond into dozens of pieces of little value that Lloyds refused to insure the owner against risk of mishap. He was profoundly relieved when Kaplan telephoned him that all was well.

LOSS IN CUTTING'

The diamond weighed 726 carats. In the cutting and polishing about 300 carats will be lost.

The largest stone to be cut from it will be 105 carats, making the third largest finished gem in the world. The Star of Africa, cut from the Cullinan diamond, weighs 516 carats, and the second stone from the Cullinan is 309 carats.

The stone is named after Jacobus Jonker, a digger, on whose claim at Elandfontein, near Pretoria, it was found buried covered by earth two years ago.

He sold it for £61,000 to Sir Ernest Oppenheimer, chairman of the Diamond Corporation. While the gem was in London awaiting resale it cost £3,000 a year for insurance.

Spanish Shepherds On Trial

Madrid, May 24.

Scant notice has been given in the press here to the trial of the shepherd axe-murderer, Pedro Bautista, who slaughtered his brother-in-law and two other shepherds in January 31, 1935 on an estate near Madrid.

The trial of the shepherd was crowded off the news pages by the series of riots, strikes and elections that have kept Spanish reporters and editors working over time.

The penalty for assassination is 30 years imprisonment and for arson the same number of years. Since Bautista burned the hut in which the killings took place, he must live 120 years to fulfill all of the penalties imposed on him by the penal code of Spain.

At the trial little evidence was offered to explain the motives for the killings, it being contended by defense counsel that this tended to prove that Pedro is insane. Pedro, answering the questions put by the three judges, stated that he became angry at his brother-in-law because of the latter's cruel treatment, and that he killed him in self-defense. He also told of how the other two shepherds, sleeping in the same hut, tried to kill him and that he crushed their skulls with the same axe he had used on his brother-in-law, to save his own life. He said the hut was fired accidentally during the fight.

Other witnesses testified that they had heard no sounds coming from the hut. They also told of how Pedro had related wild tales of an attack by unknown persons. Experts related how the men were killed by a single blow of the axe. United Press.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

MARKET UPWARD YESTERDAY

New York, May 29. Swan, Culbertson & Fritz, Dow Jones summary of yesterday's market:—The market to-day advanced from one to three points, but conditions were dull with some pre-holiday trading. Steel shares responded to the outlook regarding increased June demand and in anticipation of an increase in third-quarter prices. Railroad stocks were dull, but strong in carloadings, reaching a new high mark for the year. Utility securities were better. Copper issues rose on reports of improved buying. Equipment, building, chemical and numerous special issues advanced. The market for bonds was higher. Stocks on the Curb Exchange were upward, led by utility securities.

Swan, Culbertson & Fritz, Wall Street Journal comment on 28/5 market:—“The decrease in brokers' loans speaks well for the market's technical position, suggesting that last week's rally has not injured the underlying position of stocks. Radio Corporation's preferred issues seem to be more attractive as a speculative medium than its common issues, although the latter is mentioned as a likely speculative vehicle. The Public Service Corporation of New Jersey should have encouraging earnings over the coming months. It is understood that the Republic Steel Corporation's profits are better than earlier in the year. There is an increasing demand for housing and all kinds of construction, particularly cement, roofing and building material issues. S. C. & F. New York office cables:

Stocks. The market was under holiday influence but it acted as if higher prices will be seen in the near future. The Commercial Credit Company earned $2.29 per share for the 4 months ended April 30, against $1.58 per share during the corresponding period of last year. The Society-Vacuum Company earned $11,700,000 for the 4 months ended April 30, including $2,750,000 extraordinary income, against $1,950,000 during the corresponding 4 months of last year. Drilling costs are now amortized. Pittsburgh steel scrap prices have been reduced by 25 cents per ton. The Federation of Labour reports that unemployment in April totalled 11,506,000 persons against 12,183,000 the previous month. Bank Clearings are up 0.8 per cent.

Cotton: Hedging and realizing were readily absorbed. Demand is broadening and prices will probably move higher if drought conditions continue in the Eastern Belt. There is a better demand for textiles. Forwardings to mills during the past week amounted to 210,000 bales as compared with 200,000 bales the previous week.

Wheat: Early in the day the market displayed strength on continued dry conditions in the Northwest, but we expect prices to decline on any relief. The late easiness was due to the passage of the Exchange Control Bill by the Senate.

Rubber: The market is "steadier, but is without any special feature.

BRITAIN'S NEW NAVAL RIFLE PERTURBS U.S. NAVAL EXPERTS MAY MAKE ARMOUR OBSOLETE

Washington, May 25.

Dispatches from London saying the British had perfected a naval rifle capable of piercing armour plate twelve inches thick has caused some members of the House Appropriations Committee to doubt the wisdom of building the two new battleships the Navy Department wants.

They indicated their intention to call naval experts for questioning before investing U.S.$80,000,000 to U.S.$100,000,000 in new capital ships.

"Well, what if the British have?" was the informal reaction around the navy department. It was explained that the U.S. Navy for years has had guns—standard equipment on battleships—that under certain conditions can shoot a hole through foot-thick steel.

Put in the simplest terms, the penetrating power of a shell depends on the speed with which it strikes, which in turn depends on the distance of the gun from the object struck, and also on the angle at which it hits. It also depends on the hardness of the steel armour as well as its thickness.

So, guns of the sort the U.S. Navy mounts on its battleships might or might not penetrate another vessel with twelve inch armour, depending on all these elements.

Whether the British have developed a rifle more powerful than any the American navy uses is not known here. But even if they have, U.S. naval experts don't believe it would be a reason for this country not to build more battleships.

Navy men explained that the race between the hitting power of a shell and the resistance of armour has been going on for decades. Every time the ordnance experts developed a shell that would strike with more force than any known before, the armour designers thickened or hardened their steel a bit. Neither side has kept ahead long at a time.

SOLAR POISON

Washington, May 25.

Dr. Florence H. Meier of the Smithsonian Institution has announced the discovery of "20 distinct poison bands" in the Sun's invisible ultraviolet light.

Ordinarily the upper layers of the Earth's atmosphere filters out these wavelengths of light which are fatal to single celled green algae. Dr. Meier found the farther the wavelength was away from visible light the more fatal was the "poison band."

If it were not for the gaseous blanket of ozone miles above the Earth's surface, scientists believe life in its present form would be impossible.

Dr. Meier found the deadliest bands were around 2,200 Angstrom units, the scientific measuring rod for light. The "poison bands" in that vicinity, it was said, were the "cobra venom" of light. — United Press.

The suit was not contested. — Reuters.

THREE RICHEST MEN IN FILM

"SHOOTING" £300,000,000 RULERS

THANKS to the enterprise of a young Englishman, three of the world's richest men are to co-star in a film:

OWNS FLYING CORPS

The men whose private lives will be brought to the screen are the Nizam of Hyderabad, the Maharajah of Bikanir, and the Maharajah of Jaipur, the Indian potentates whose combined wealth is reputed to exceed £300,000,000.

The film, which will be in colour, will capture all the glitter and gorgeous pageantry of their Eastern kingdoms.

Richly decorated palaces, traditional processions in all their Oriental magnificence will be offset by "shots" revealing the simple life led by the rulers in the midst of colossal riches.

The man who has secured permission to take this film is adventurous, cheery, blue-eyed F. W. Wilson.

HIS WINNING WAY

With his usual winning manner, he walked in and succeeded where a dozen big film companies had failed.

The Nizam of Hyderabad, the first star in the film, is the world's richest man. His total income is said to exceed £150,000,000.

His annual income is £10,000,000. His State coach is of pure gold from his own mines of Golconda.

Fourteen million people come under his rule.

The State of Bikanir is ruled by the six-foot, military-looking Maharajah, Britain's firm friend and ally.

In his state Mr. Wilson will be able to film the crack Bikanir camel corps.

The young cadets at the War School in Potsdam are practising an exercise consisting of throwing iron balls. A very impressive sight from the spectator's point of view.

JAMES PHILIP ATUS COLEMAN lived in the same house as his brother George near Hornell, New York, for sixty-two years, but they never crossed the chalk line that divided their home in two.

Each brother had his own bed, his own sink, stove, and dishes. They raised their own vegetables, but the garden was divided by a chalk line which they never crossed. They took their vegetables

VITAMIN THAT PUTS A KICK INTO LIFE

SCIENCE has found a new human value in vitamin D which, so far, has been associated chiefly with rickets. It may turn sluggards into "sloggers."

Tests were made with rats at the Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Massachusetts, and 1,000 X-ray photographs were taken.

The rats were dieted with foods deficient in vitamin D, then they were given food containing the vitamin.

The photographs showed that food lacking vitamin D was retained much longer in the stomach and that sluggishness was the result.

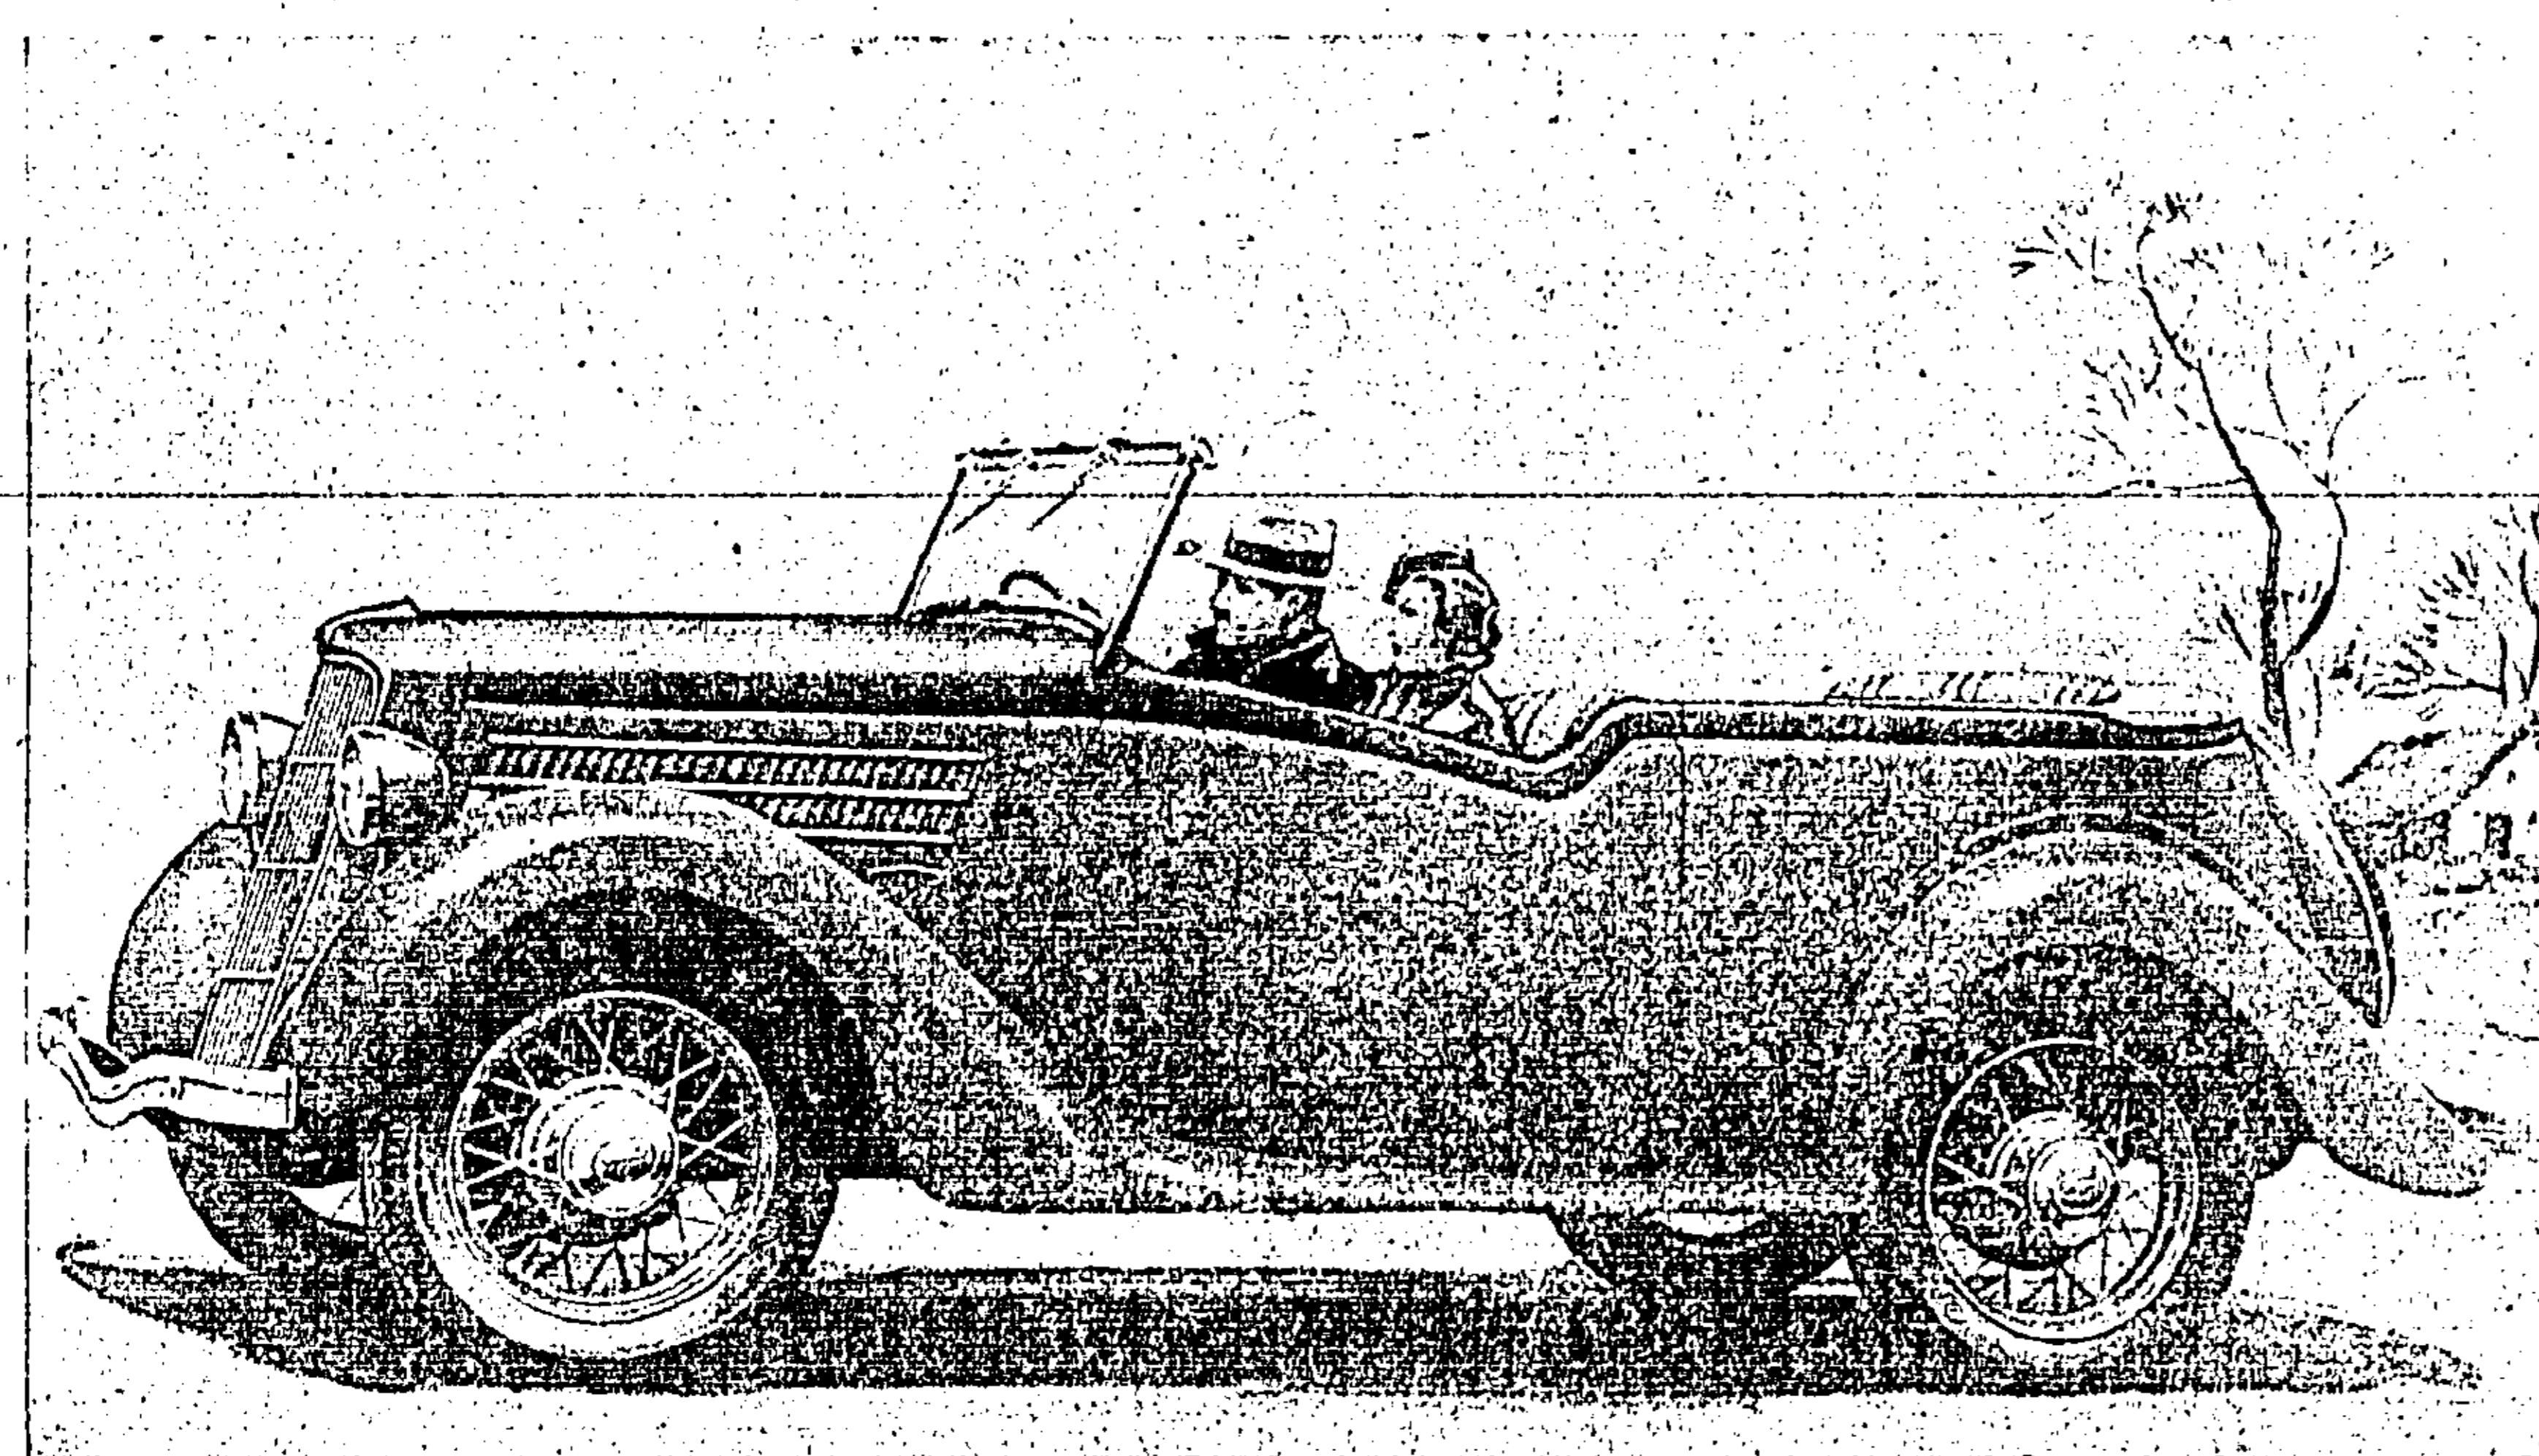

Professors R. S. Harris and J. W. M. Bunker, the experimenters, state that the nutritional reactions of rats are so often similar to those of humans that, apparently, the same results can be expected in the case of human beings.

Presumably, therefore, diet rich in the vitamin would turn the sluggard into a "slogger."

Vitamin D is found chiefly in milk, eggs and fish, especially halibut, and halibut liver oil contains the vitamin in a highly concentrated form.

You, too, can have them—if you know this secret about removing film

Brushing with ordinary dentifrices can never give you the gleaming white teeth you envy. Only brushing with an effective film-removing dentifrice can do that. For film is the sticky, gummy coating that forms on teeth, obscures their natural beauty. Even worse, it gives to teeth the germs and acids associated with tooth decay. You must remove that film.

That's why we urge you to use Pepsodent, the special film-removing tooth paste. For Pepsodent contains a cleansing and polishing substance that is unequalled in removing film from teeth. Yet it contains no grit—nothing to injure tooth enamel. So if you want whiter, brighter teeth remove film the safe, effective way—with Pepsodent Tooth Paste.

ENTERTAINMENT PAGE

When Rudolf Friml last visited Hongkong in search of a girl to play the leading role in "Sing-Song Girl" he "discovered" Alice Lau, well-known local Chinese beauty, with whom he is pictured above. But Mrs. Lau refused to go to Hollywood, so the search must be renewed. See story next Column.

"FIRST NIGHT" SUGGESTS THAT YOU PROTEST IF INCREASED LICENCE FEE IS NOT FOR BETTER PROGRAMMES

ABOUT that extra two dollars per annum it's going to cost you to own a receiver.

At a rough estimate, Z.B.W. will take another $5,000 from listeners this year.

Next year, it will cost more. Over 5,000 listeners will have to fork out an additional two dollars for their licences.

It doesn't matter a tinker's cuss whether you listen to Z.B.W. or not. You've got to pay $12 per annum for the privilege of owning a wireless set.

What's going to happen to all this additional money Z.B.W. will receive for licences?

Presumably the cost of running the station is not going to increase.

If the money is for maintenance of the new 3½ kilo-watt short-wave station now in course of erection, Hongkong listeners should protest.

That station is not for our benefit. Its purpose is twofold: to advertise Hongkong to the outside world and to counteract propaganda from other stations in times of emergency.

The first objective is the concern of the Hongkong Government, through the Travel Association. Tourists do not benefit Hongkong listeners: they benefit the Colony as a whole, and the Colony as a whole should be made to pay for them. Similarly, propaganda is not the pidgeon of Hongkong listeners: it is the pidgeon of the authorities.

The new short-wave transmitter does not and will at no time serve the listeners who are paying to maintain Z.B.W.

Any revenue Government derives from the increased fee for broadcasting MUST be put back into broadcasting in order to improve Z.B.W.'s programmes.

If that is the object of the increase in the licence fee, few listeners will object.

But if Government is earmarking the additional revenue to construct costly short wave broadcasting stations to reach the ears of the Canadian, American, Australian and European listener, you who in future must pay $12 per annum as a licence for your receiver have every right to blow off the deep end.

Remember what Z.B.W. programmes are like now. Compare them with the programmes you will be getting at the end of the year. Unless there is a vast difference, pack up your wireless set and buy a cheap gramophone.

Z.B.W. can be improved in dozens of ways, and the money that will be obtained from increased licence fees is too sorely needed to be frittered away on luxuries that are not going to benefit the listeners.

GIVE AMATEURS A CHANCE AT Z.B.W.

Why not give amateurs a chance to broadcast from Z.B.W. Many would like to do so, but they don't know how to go about it.

In the United States commercial firms pay a Major Bowes £1,000 a week to put on an amateur hour every Sunday night. The idea has grown to be a bigger craze than crosswords or mah-jong. Ten thousand unfortunate discontents apply every week for a chance to grab a minute's fame before the mike.

Chicken farmers, garage men, mothers of families, tramps and grocers' assistants, they all come. Out of the ten thousand (the good major has to feed, sometimes clothe, most before they can do their little pieces, after hitch-hiking, thumbing a way half across America) at most twenty-five are chosen. The rest go empty away. Lucky (?) ones are entitled to nothing but their chance; but the good major generally gives them a couple of pounds after the show.

So of Sunday night, the whole American nation settles itself deeper, switches on and listens, with something of a savage and secret pleasure, to the panicky croaking, trumpeting, impersonations and animal noises of twenty-five of its less fortunate citizens.

The Romans, on the other hand, preferred to leave the whole matter of local broadcasting to the recognised amateur artists, whom you hear day in and day out without much variation.

"ROSE MARIE" COMPOSER ARRIVED ON A MISSION YESTERDAY

FRIML IN SEARCH OF A GIRL

RUDOLF FRIML, famed composer of music in "Rose Marie" is back in town.

Since 1932 he has regarded Hongkong as his home town, and now lives here six months in each year.

But present visit—he arrived here yesterday—will combine business with pleasure.

He's going to make third and final effort to find Chinese girl who can speak English fluently, has a figure and pretty face and can act passably.

For her there'll be a contract with Paramount Film Corporation, a fat cheque, and an opportunity to become over-night a big-shot Hollywood star.

Girl is needed to take leading role in "Sing-Song Girl," Friml's latest operetta.

Fifty per cent of locale is in West Point of Hongkong. Remainder is in New York.

Girl who fits bill will have to go to Hollywood. She can take as many chaperones as she likes.

This is Friml's third search for "Sing-Song Girl." First search was unsuccessful, on second he picked local girl who was "perfect," but she pulled out before signing on dotted line.

Friml told me just before he left Hongkong to go to Hollywood to supervise production of "Rose Marie" that music in "Sing-Song Girl" is even more haunting than refrain in Canadian Mountie operetta.

All of "Sing-Song Girl" music was composed in Hongkong, in suite in Peninsula facing harbour.

"Hongkong's beautiful peace at night gave me my inspiration," he said.

"Sing-Song Girl" will be produced by Paramount, under direction of Cecil B. de Mille. All exteriors, and many interiors, will be shot in Hongkong, finishing touches being put to film in Hollywood.

As soon as Friml can find his Girl, camera unit and European members of cast will be sent out to Colony.

They will be here six months on production, may yet beat other units—United Artists to film exteriors for "Marco Polo," Pioneer Films to film exteriors for "Chinese Gordon"—expected here within few months.

HONGKONG WILL B'CAST TO WHOLE WORLD

IN SEPTEMBER

Work commenced at Cape D'Aguilar this week on new 3½ kilo-watt short wave broadcasting station which will replace present quarter kilowatt outfit in use at Z.B.W.

New transmitter will be powerful enough to reach every part of the world. It will be completed in time to allow Hongkong to participate in annual Empire Christmas programmes, during which greetings are relayed to and from London to every part of the British Empire.

Transmitter will also be suitable for radio-telephony. It will provide Hongkong with radiophone link with Manila, Singapore, Hanoi, other centres with which Colony has contacts during recent months.

Installation is expected to be completed by September; new station will go on air shortly afterwards.

Girls' and Boys' Corner

Dear Kiddies,

Lots of you had difficulty in solving the Hidden Names Competition last week. The correct answers were:—Ambrose Miller, Lily Brook, Muriel Gray, Robin Featherstone, Brian Bridges, Mabel Wallace.

Taking neatness and age into account, Uncle Eddie has decided to award the Senior prize to Jeanne Freeman (aged 11), of 289 Prince Edward Road; and the Junior to Arthur Fisher (aged 6), of the Royal Artillery Depot.

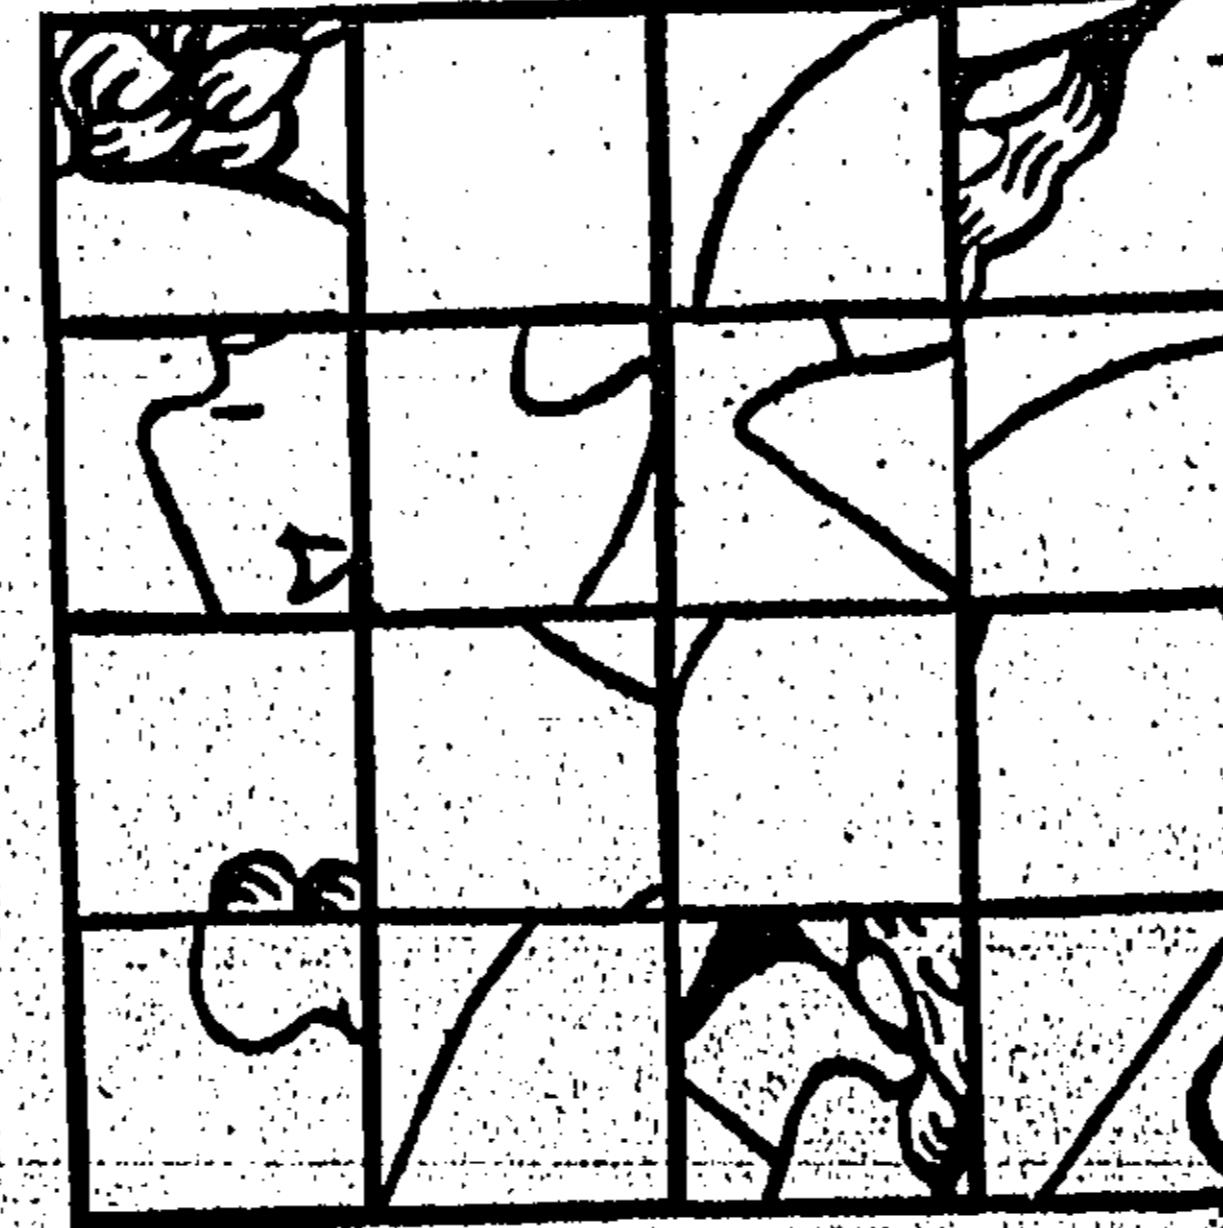

Specially commended for good work are:—Diana Freeman, David McCawland, Phyllis Kirby, Peter Ferguson, John Clever and Betty Manders. For this week, children, I'm giving you a Jig-Saw Colouring Competition. What you have to do is to cut out the sixteen squares shown in the accompanying sketch and fit them together so that they form a picture. Then paste them on a card and colour the picture in paints or crayons. Neatness and excellence of colouring will be taken into account in awarding the prizes.

There will again be two prizes, details of which you will find in the advertising column of to-day's "Telegraph," for children 10 and 14, and the other for those below 10 years. Competitors must state their age. This is important.

Send in your entries addressed to Uncle Eddie, c/o "Hongkong Telegraph," so as to reach him not later than 4 p.m. on Wednesday.

Phyllis Kirby—Thanks ever so much Phyllis, for the lovely painting of the grass hopper. It is beautifully drawn and coloured. Uncle Eddie

This is the Wedding Dress

Lady Angela Scott Wore last month

GOWN is of heavy satin, the soft white of a creamy rice pudding. Wide band of smocking from throat to knee draws gown close to figure, emphasises waist (that strip took two embroideresses a day and a half to do). Dress otherwise unornamented. Sheath sleeves, buttoning up skin tight and shaped like an arum lily where they reach over the hands. Fan train springs from back of gown.

HEAD-RESS made from about 4½ square yards of foamy net-and-mounted-with-bridal-veil lent to the bride, who is a sister of the Duchess of Gloucester, by her mother-in-law, Lady Susan Dawney. Wreath of unreal orange blossoms.

FLOWERS: crescent of living flowers, all white: roses, tulips, lilies-of-the-valley, stephanotis . . .

Your Home can pay for itself

MANY women who are good at home-making and have comfortable houses of their own wish to add to their income.

If you have an available spare room, it is a good idea to take a paying guest. Put an advertisement in a newspaper, and seek the help of friends and relatives. If it is known to business houses and schools that you have an empty room, they are likely to send you prospective clients.

Remember that it is the atmosphere of your home that makes it comfortable to live in. Make your guest feel that your house is a second home. Remember the little things: the cup of tea in bed, really hot shaving water, well-cleaned shoes, and nicely cooked and well-served breakfast make people feel well cared for. Do not belittle early morning efficiency. It pays in the end.

Do not be niggardly in small things. See that there is always plenty of soap in the bathroom and in your spare room; and a few flowers are well worth their cost. Be cheerful when you can. There is a good deal of irritation in a day's work, no matter how good the job, and it is a relief to be able to shed it on reaching home.

If your guest has an accident and breaks or damages your things, make light of it. In any case, he will probably offer to repair the damage, so no real harm is done.

If there is any complaint to make, do it in a reasonable manner. It is a mistake to create an atmosphere of suspicion. Talk it over in a quiet way, and you will find that everything works out all right.

A bed-sitting room can be very dreary at times, no matter how comfortable it is. Ask your guest to sit with you sometimes, and make it possible for him to entertain his friends.

Variety is the spice of food. It need not necessarily be more expensive than usual, but your guest will appreciate it more if he does not know every meal in advance. A little surprise often coaxes a tired stomach and soothes a tired brain.

Naturally, you are taking a paying guest to increase your own security and peace of mind. Do not forget the other side of the picture. Your boarder is not in his own home. Be a friend to him and he will never forget it. His luck and your fame will spread far and wide. But remember that a bad name travels farther and faster than a good one.

The knack of making people happy and contented is your capital. Make the best of it.

QUIET CORNER

Four seasons meet . . .

THROUGH the gap half-way up the lane one comes to a small stretch of ground which is like a cross-roads where four seasons meet.

Close to the hedge stands the yellow rick of wheatstraw from last summer's crop. The thatcher is at work on it, anxious to be finished before darkness falls.

He climbs up his ladder rather as the thrush at evening mounts higher up the tree to make the most of daylight.

The plough stands idle at a furrow's end, where half the field is being fallowed for the next year's wheat.

The other half is green with the corn which will yield the coming harvest.

Near the dividing line is a relic of many seasons past, an oblong section of a blackened hayrick, which stands like some mysterious altar bearing a burnt-offering to the gods of farming.

While you are prosperous,
purse-full, in fair fame,
Flattering, "Come, be my household's altar-flame,"
When knowing you can bask on sunny isles;
Not one who sayeth, "That brain's a mighty mould,"
With base-coind' hints about alloys in gold;
Nor he who frankly tells you all
your faults,
But drops all merit into vampire vaults;
No: the true friend stands close
'midst circling storms,
When you are poor,—lost,— wrestling thro' a cloud;
With whom your ship rides high,
in freezing calm,
its banner, ghostly pale, to him
still proud;
Whose heart's 'Blest-Arab-spice
dead hope embalms,
The name, tho' you are throned,
—or waiting for your shroud.
R. HENIST HORNE
(1802-1884).

Turn it into a greased mould and steam it for an hour.

The flavours can be varied according to the sort of meat which is being used up. Parsley and thyme, for instance, would go very well with veal, mushrooms with beef or mutton, and sage with pork.

If the meat has insufficient fat of its own, add a proportion of minced fat bacon to it.

Serve the mould with a well-seasoned brown or tomato sauce poured round it.

Lastly, a sweet.

Steam a pound of prunes until they are very soft. Take out the stones and crush the prunes smoothly in a basin. Crack the stones and split the kernels in two.

Sweeten the prunes with molasses, add the kernels and steam the mixture in a plain, oiled mould for an hour. Serve cold with whipped cream or custard.

You can make moulds from all kinds of MEATS

FROM jellies and pudding to beef loaf and brawn, the mould has innumerable uses. It will turn the odd piece of cold meat from amorphous mince into a stately edifice.

In its smallest form, when known as a dariole mould, it makes dainty luncheon dishes of jellied chicken, rabbit, fish, or vegetables, and also those castle puddings which were favourites of one's youth.

Use only the best gelatine for making jelly, and, when practice has made you almost perfect in the matter of consistency, you should get few failures if the following instructions are carried out.

Always rinse the mould in cold water and let the sides of it be wet before putting in the jelly. When the time comes to turn it out, immerse the mould for a moment in hot water. Thick earthenware moulds will naturally need a little longer time than metal ones.

Then put the dish for your jelly on top of the mould and turn them over. Don't shake vigorously as if you were expecting a cocktail to emerge. Give a downward jerk only, and then remove the mould carefully as though you were a conjurer performing a very remarkable trick. We hope you are.

Meat shapes are not usually so refractory, and, before they are put in, the mould should be brushed over with olive oil or butter.

To make cold meat into a hot mould, take a pound of it and mince it. Mix it with a quarter of a pound of breadcrumbs, an onion finely chopped, pepper, salt, a pinch of grated nutmeg, two beaten eggs and enough stock to moisten.

THE second and third courses are well known. For the first, soak a couple of thick slices of stale bread in cold water and then squeeze as dry as possible. Now beat this bread up in a basin, using a fork, with a teaspoonful of grated onion, a dessertspoonful of finely-chopped parsley, the grated rind of a lemon, a teaspoonful of mixed herbs, salt, pepper (black), a pinch of ground ginger, a touch of nutmeg and some dry bread crumbs. Bind with a beaten egg, and make little marbles of the mixture. Let these poach in the soup for 20 minutes before you serve it.

How Hongkong Is Defeating a "Gentleman's" Pact JAPANESE TEXTILE MERCHANTS USE COLONY FOR OPERATIONS

PACT BETWEEN U.S.A. AND JAPAN DEFEATED BY DUMPING IN H.K.

QUOTA THAT HAS BEEN RENDERED INEFFECTIVE BY SHIPPING TEXTILES TO COLONY

FOR RE-EXPORTATION TO PHILIPPINES

"Telegraph" Special Representative

IS Hongkong being used as a dumping ground for Japanese cotton textiles in order to defeat the recent "Gentleman's Agreement" between Japan and the United States, whereby the Japanese Guild for Cotton Cloth Exports agreed to limit exports to the Philippines to 42 million square yards per annum.

Investigations disclose that the answer is in the affirmative.

This week I saw several persons connected with the textile import and export trade in Hongkong.

As soon as the purport of my visit was made known they refused to be interviewed.

Some, in fact, emphatically denied the suggestion that Hongkong was being used as a base to re-export Japanese textiles to the Philippines in contravention of the Japanese-United States agreement.

As a result of investigations, however, I am able to quote official figures proving beyond a shadow of a doubt that this trade is reaching such gigantic proportions that it is almost equalling that trade that existed directly between Japan and the United States before the agreement came into force on October 11 last year.

My figures are based on those issued by the Hongkong Government Statistician's Office.

They indisputably show that, in the first four months of the current year, Hongkong exports of cotton textiles to the Philippines were more than double the exports for the same period last year.

Imports from Japan to Hongkong have increased correspondingly.

Hongkong, in fact, is being used as a clearing house in order to defeat the letter of the agreement between America and Japan.

In each month since the agreement came into force the trade has developed enormously.

The following figures, showing the export of cotton textiles from Hongkong to the Philippine Island for the first four months of the current year and for the corresponding period last year speak for themselves:

EXPORT OF COTTON TEXTILES TO P.I. (Linear Yards)

1935	1936
4,077,000	3,215,000
January ... 1,630,000	5,669,000
February ... 5,391,000	10,371,000
March ... 4,686,100	10,706,000

In the first four months of 1935, Hongkong re-exported 17,784,100 linear yards of textiles to the Philippines.

In the same period for the current year, we exported no less than 30,991,000 linear yards.

INCREASES IN APRIL

The greater part of this vast shipment was made in March and April, when 21,077,000 linear yards were exported.

It will be seen therefore that the exports of cotton textiles from Hongkong to the Philippines for March and April alone equal exactly fifty per cent of the total quota of 42,000,000 yards agreed upon by Japanese exporters.

In effect Japan is exporting 42,000,000 yards of cotton textiles, the limits imposed by the agreement direct to the Philippines.

This maximum allowance however will be easily exceeded 100 per cent, by the amount of non-quota textiles going through Hongkong.

One Small Gap Holds Up H.K. Motorists

JUST ONE RIVER TO CROSS

With the promise of a road extension across the Hongkong-Kwangtung border linking Fanling and Sheung Shui with Shum Chun and the enormous road development that is taking place in Kwangtung Province, it will be possible before long for Hongkong motorists to make many extensive road tours outside our own Colony.

So far has road development been carried in Kwangtung that it would be already possible for Hongkong motorists to travel from the Colony to Canton on a roadway that is remarkably good in parts, fair in others, but for the fact that no facilities are available for travelling from the Hongkong side of the Shum Chun river and Shum Chun itself.

ROUNDABOUT ROAD

The road from Shum Chun to Canton is a roundabout one, occupying about twice the mileage of the Kowloon Canton Railway.

From Shum Chun motorists can travel along an excellent road to Lung Kong, where alternative routes can be taken to Tsing Shing. The southern and longer route is via Ping Shan, but the roads are better than those on the shorter route via Yip-shaipo and Walchow.

Both roads join again at Walchow, which is on the East River, and from where it is possible to take a motor boat to Canton. From Wuchow the road is fairly indifferent to Poldoh-niue (population 342,000), and from there on to Tsengtang and Canton in fair.

ROAD TO MACAO

It is anticipated that before the end of 1937 travellers will be able to proceed not only to Canton but also to Macao by road.

Macao is already linked with Shek-ki by two excellent alternative routes, and a roadway is under construction linking Shek-ki with Lung Kong. From Lung Kong a fairly good road provides a link with Fatshan. No link is as yet provided between Fatshan and Canton, but it is one of the Kwangtung Provincial projects.

The smallest, but most insuperable missing link from the point of view of Hongkong motorists is the one across the border dividing Kwangtung from the New Territories.

Hongkong imports leapt up to 4,843,349 yards, and its exports to 4,223,946 yards!

Although itemised figures for last month are not yet available for publication, I understand that they show a big increase on the figures quoted above for the month of March.

FOURFOLD INCREASE

The figures for March, 1936, speak for themselves.

In March, 1935, before the agreement between Japan and America came into force, Hongkong imported 916,725 yards of Plain Cottons from Japan, exporting only 178,675 yards of the same material to Philippines.

In March this year, after the agreement had come into force,

Hongkong imports leapt up to 4,843,349 yards, and its exports to 4,223,946 yards!

Although itemised figures for last month are not yet available for publication, I understand that they show a big increase on the figures quoted above for the month of March.

Coroner And A Dead Woman's Letters

"FRANKLY, I DO NOT BELIEVE THEM!"

SISTER'S EVIDENCE OF
"SELF-PITY"

In view of allegations in a letter left by Mrs. Margaret Wardle, 37, wife of a retired Army captain, who was found dead from gas poisoning at an apartment house in Warwick-avenue, Maida Vale, Mr. Ingleby Oddie, the coroner, at a Paddington inquest recently questioned Mr. James Quin, a retired naval commander.

After hearing the evidence, Mr. Oddie, in recording a verdict of suicide, while of unsound mind, said: "I frankly do not believe the allegations against Commander Quin."

In a letter which the coroner read, the woman alleged that she had been turned out of the house by the commander.

Mr. Quin stated that Mrs. Wardle had lived with him as his wife for about three years. They conducted an apartment house in Warwick-avenue.

Recently they had a disagreement because Mrs. Wardle would keep running in and out of people's rooms, and it was annoying them. He did not tell her to clear out. She had already packed to go to Glasgow.

WHY BED WAS REMOVED

Coroner: How did you meet this lady?—I met her quite by accident in the West End one evening about three years ago. She and her husband were separated. She had been home to Glasgow several times.

He said he had Mrs. Wardle's bed removed from her room on Thursday because she said she was going to Glasgow, and he was getting the room ready for letting. She came back on Friday, and he last saw her alive on Saturday night.

He appealed to her to have her bed back, but she would not, and slept on cushions on the floor.

Mr. Quin told the coroner he had seen a letter addressed to him.

Coroner: In it she says: "I had no intention of going to Scotland. You have played a dirty game. I have always done my best for you, but apparently you are all wrong. I have nowhere to go and have no money, so under the circumstances this is the best way out."

Coroner: How have you played her a dirty game?—I don't know. That was a figure of speech with her. During the time I have known her I have done my best in every way. She was practically destitute, and I have seen that she had all that she needed.

You have been living with her for about three years, and if you turn her into the street with no money and nowhere to go that is a dirty trick, isn't it?—I have not done such a thing.

Mr. Quin added that he was financing Mrs. Wardle to go away, and he gave her £5 to redeem some small pieces of jewellery, and she asked for some money to pay her fare to Glasgow.

He had never threatened or been violent to the woman. One of her weaknesses was gambling in small sums on racehorses.

Coroner: Are you single or married?—Single.

IMAGINARY GRIEVANCES

She has said to Miss Barry in a letter which she wrote just before she died: James has been behaving like a madman lately and treating me badly. Now he proposes turning me out, and has removed my belongings from my room. I don't deserve this from him. I haven't a bean now, and the best thing is to end it all."

Mr. Quin repeated that he did not turn the woman out.

Miss Hilda Barry, a school-teacher, who found Mrs. Wardle dead in her room, seated on a chair with a gas ring on her lap, stated that she had never seen Mr. Quin ill-treat the woman. Mrs. Wardle had said that he had threatened to strike her and that on Thursday morning he had kicked her.

Mrs. Rose Gilmore, sister of the dead woman, who said that she lived in Glasgow, gave evidence that Mrs. Wardle suffered from imaginary grievances against everyone—she had a sense of grievances and self-pity and was unreliable.

"I think it is all wrong to blame anyone for what has happened except herself," said Mrs. Gilmore. "That is the reason why I would not take anyone for what has happened except herself," said Mrs. Gilmore. "That is the reason why I would not take anyone for what has happened except herself," said Mrs. Gilmore. "That is the reason why I would not take

THE ENGLISH AND THEIR EVENING DRESS

NOT lightly should the Englishman give up his Evening Dress, badge of his tribe. So think Oxford Union, the Undergraduates' Parliament. So thought Ernest Cardin, of Balham, penniless, but proud.

When the Union met recently president, secretary, chairman and treasurer all wore lounge suits. But librarian J. Brown moved that in future all officers should wear Evening Dress.

Nothing, he declared, was more likely to bring the Union into contempt than for members to see them in all sorts of garb. President W. G. C. Shobden (Socialist) disagreed.

But Evening Dress won, by a large majority.

ERNEST CARDIN lived in a flat in Cobhams. Every day for six months he had gone out, a bowed, bowler-hatted figure, carrying a parcel.

One night this month he went out for the last time. In his parcel was his Evening Dress. It was the last of all his possessions. And, when he had sold it, he guessed himself.

"I don't want to die," he said in a farewell note they found "but I've nothing left."

Years ago Ernest Cardin was rich; but a few days before he died he had only 2s. He took it to a dog racing meeting—and lost.

Women Want Flight To Stratosphere

Warsaw, May 20. TWENTY-TWO people, among them three women, want tickets to the stratosphere. Each of them is willing to pay $20,000 for a ticket.

This emerges from answers received by Professor Jean Piccard, the stratosphere balloonist, in reply to his advertisement stating that he is willing to take with him to the stratosphere anyone who will pay £20,000 towards the cost of the ascent.

He intends to make the ascent from Polish territory. The balloon has been ordered from the Polish military balloon works at Leglino.

50-YEAR-OLD WIDOW

The list of applicants is headed by two Japanese millionaires, who have both offered a sum higher than Professor Piccard's figure, provided that he will agree to make the ascent from Japan.

Another applicant is a 50-year-old widow, whose condition is that, in the event of an accident, a monument should be erected to her memory.

The wife of a South American business man entrusts Professor Piccard to take her with him so that she may have "at least one interesting day in a tiresome and boring life."

FOR A SYMPHONY

A Swedish woman pilot, owner of a bicycle factory, in America, who composes music, is anxious to gather material to write a "stratosphere symphony."

A rich woman from Delhi wants to take part in the ascent provided that "no one learns of her exploit."

The ages of the applicants range from 71 to 14.—Reuters.

Professor Piccard is reputed to have said that he would not undertake the flight with a woman passenger.

BRILLIANT FORM BY INDIAN

FISHLOCK DOES SAME TRICK

London, May 29. India suffered another defeat against a county cricket team to-day, Essex proving much too strong for the visitors and won by seven wickets.

Everything in the match was overshadowed by the brilliant batting of Armanath, who not only hit up 130 out of his side's total first innings score of 184, but went on to gather another 107 in the second innings.

In the county championship, Sussex lost to Surrey, the feature of the match being Fishlock's two centuries for the winners. Maurice Tate had a successful spell with the ball, capturing 6 for 57.

Sussex could never fully recover from a disastrous first innings which realized a mere 97 runs. When they batted a second time they put together 302, but the effort came too late to save defeat.

Oxford did well to beat Worcestershire, while Cambridge drew with Yorkshire, although the champions were strongly placed right through.
Results.

Essex (351 and 61/3) beat All-
India (184 and 227) by seven wickets.

Surrey (276 and 184/4) beat
Sussex (97 and 362) by six wickets.

Oxford (294 and 278) beat Worcestershire (170 and 249) by 63 runs.

Yorkshire (439 for 4 dec. and
204) drew with Cambridge (260 and 64/1).

Eyston Not To Attack Records Yet

FAMOUS RACER'S QUEST

Salt Lake City, May 29. Captain George E. T. Eyston, the 39 years-old English racing motorist, who is attempting to lower all records above 100 miles, has now reduced his records up to 100 miles, said to-day that the Bonneville Dals were in sufficiently dry to attempt any records until June.

Eyston is using a mystery Diesel-engined car called the "Flying Spray" for his efforts to set new records above 100 miles while for his attempts on records up to 100 miles he is using a 450 h.p. car called "Speed of the Winds." —United Press.

AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

JIM FERRIER HAD AN ANXIOUS TIME

But Recovered Brilliantly To Enter Final

St. Andrew's, May 29.

Hector Thomson, the Walker Cup player, and Jim Ferrier, Australian champion, will contest the final of the British Open Amateur Golf Championship here. To-day both survived quarter-final and semi-final matches, Thomson, continuing his remarkable form, won comfortably. Ferrier was hard pressed in the semi-final by Alec Hill, a London stockbroker and won by one up.

They returned the following cards on the outward journey:—

Hill, 1-4-1-5-5-1-4-3-4=37.
Ferrier, 1-4-1-5-5-5-4-3-4=38.

Ferrier generally was out-driven though there was nothing to choose between their short game. At the first and fourth Ferrier pulled his tee shot and was bunkered; Hill found himself in the heather at the fourth and on the six Ferrier took three putts. Hill turned on the homeward course one up.

FERRIER'S EAGLE

Ferrier squared at the tenth with a five-yard putt and took the lead in sensational fashion at the twelfth where his tee shot finished a yard from the pin. Nevertheless Hill did the hole in a birdie three against Ferrier's eagled two.

Hill squared at the fourteenth, laying a long approach dead, but he was short at the seventeenth where the Australian became one up with an orthodox four.

Their return cards read—

Ferrier, 3-4-2-4-5-4-4-4=34.
Hill, 4-4-1-5-5-4-4-3=37.

THRILLING FINAL EXPECTED

The Anglo-Scottish final between Thomson and Hill is expected to furnish a very thrilling match, says Reuter. Odds are still slightly in favour of Thomson.

The feature of to-day's play was the performance of Alec Hill in the quarter-final whose putting was very spectacular. Tolley should have won his match against him, but he stymied Hill at the nineteenth when he was one up.

The results in brief were:—

QUARTER-FINALS

H. Thomson beat G. Peters 2 and

1. C. Ewing beat Martin 2 and 1.

A. Hill beat C. Tolley at nineteen-

J. Ferrier beat M. Dykes 3 and 2.

Australia's Davis Cup team to oppose America. Vivian McGrath, Clifford Sproule (player-manager), Adrian Quist, and Jack Crawford.

America Or Australia? To-day's Big Davis Cup Encounter

ADRIAN QUIST EXPECTED TO BE AUSTRALIA'S "KEY" PLAYER

(By "Veritas")

Not since Rene Lacoste took his famous team of "Musketeers" to Philadelphia in September 1927 has the United States staged such an important Davis Cup tie as that which starts at Germantown, Pa., to-day between America and Australia in the final of the American Zone.

It is true that Australia played at Philadelphia in 1932, but as she was then represented by Jack Crawford, who had still to reach the zenith of his career, and Harry Hopman who was not in the same class as Ellsworth Vines, Frank Shields, Allison and Van Ryn, the contest did not even promise to be anything out of the ordinary. America won that tie by five rubbers to two.

Since then these two countries have met once, when in 1934 they contested the Inter-Zone final, United States winning by three rubbers to two.

QUIST THE "KEY" MAN

To-day Australia meets the United States with practically a 50-50 chance of winning. Jack Crawford may not be the potential force of 1933; yet he remains a player capable of beating anybody. Nevertheless Australia's "key" player does not appear to be Crawford, but Adrian Quist, who has jumped into prominence during the last twelve months with a succession of victories over Crawford, Turnbull, McGrath, N. G. Farquharson and V. G. Kirby.

Quist, previously a doubles player, now holds the singles championships of Australia, New South Wales, Victoria and Queensland. Last year at Wimbledon he won the doubles title with Crawford, and in a subsequent tour of South Africa scored eight important successes in singles matches.

In three of these four Australian championships he defeated Crawford, once in the semi-final and twice in the finals.

Quist therefore earns the right of being described the greatest singles player in Australia to-day. But he is just as brilliant at the doubles game, and Clifford Sproule, player-manager of the team may find it difficult to make up his mind how to use Quist against America.

THE PROBLEM

On the face of it he and Crawford should play singles, while in view of their Wimbledon achievement. In this year, plus the fact that Quist, with Turnbull, beat Crawford and McGrath in the Australian championship final a few months ago, the same two appear to be most desirable for the doubles.

It is doubtful, however, if this is being seriously considered. The question seems to be whether Quist will be used for singles or doubles.

Crawford is almost certain to figure in both and his partner is most likely to be Vivian McGrath. If McGrath is chosen for singles then Quist will play doubles with Crawford, but if Quist is preferred for singles, which is most likely, McGrath, who has had plenty of experience of playing doubles with Crawford, will partner Australia's former No. 1 exponent.

America's line-up appears to be a much easier problem. Wilmer Allison, Bryan ("Bitsy") Grant; Donald Budge and Gene Mako have been chosen, and it is clear who will play singles and doubles.

Budge and Mako are holders of the United States doubles championship and are certain to figure in this capacity against the Australians, leaving Grant and Allison to concentrate on the singles.

In his own country Grant is as good as any of his colleagues and if anything is to be preferred to Budge who has several weak links in his game, notably his forehand—drives—and smashing.

Wilmer Allison, a menace to any player anywhere, as witness his historic performances in the Challenge Round at Wimbledon last year, is doubly dangerous on his own courts, SEVERE TEST FOR GRANT

It is going to be a severe test for Grant, who will be making what is more or less his debut in really important international tennis. Though he played against Mexico in the first round, it was not a real challenge to his prowess. Whether he is, or is not, the one singles player America has been needing for the past four or five years will be better illustrated during the next three days.

Once again the draw may have a profound effect upon the trend of the match. Australia will probably prefer Crawford to be drawn first out of the hat as this will not only mean that he will figure in the last match of the series, but will provide him with a little additional rest between the doubles and his second singles. If the match should depend on the result of the fourth singles, Australia would probably be better served by Crawford than Quist, as the former Wimbledon champion has considerably more match experience and a more equable temperament for such an occasion than either of his colleagues.

Although Budge and Mako constitute such a brilliant doubles combination, it must be hastening to Australia to realise that they stand

INTERPORT LAWN BOWLS TEAM WILL GO TO SHANGHAI

DRAW FOR ANOTHER CHAMPIONSHIP

Hongkong will send a lawn bowls Interport team to Shanghai this year, probably at the end of September as any earlier date clashes with the finish of the league season.

This was decided at a meeting of the Interport Lawn Bowls Association held yesterday when the draw for the Colony singles championship was also made. It was further decided that the half a dozen outstanding matches in the first round of the pairs competition be played on Tuesday June 6, and if rain should prevent the programme from being carried out that all games would automatically be re-arranged for Monday, June 8, on the same greens.

Below will be found the draw for the open singles and the dates for forthcoming ties.

How Doctors

Closed

Safety-Pin In Baby's Lung

ONE of the most skilful operations known to surgery was performed at King's College Hospital, Denmark Hill, S.E., recently.

It was the removal of an open safety pin from the lung of a 21-months-old baby, Thomas Christy, of Crawley-lane, Oldham, Lancs.

Two attempts to remove the pin had previously been made at the Royal Manchester Children's Hospital, Pendlebury.

An instrument called a laryngoscope is first inserted through the mouth and down the windpipe. This has the effect of straightening the windpipe for the passage of a foot-long instrument called the bronchoscope.

PINHEAD LIGHT

The laryngoscope is lighted by two tiny electric bulbs which shine down the inside of the tube and form a centre spotlight.

The bronchoscope is separately lighted by a bulb no larger than a pinhead. This is fitted on the end of a wire which passes down a groove of the bronchoscope.

The instrument is then pushed down through the centre of the laryngoscope and into the lung, which is located by the bending of the baby's body to the right or left—whatever lung is sought.

Once this instrument is in place the laryngoscope can be removed by sliding off the top section.

INGENIOUS INSTRUMENT

The next operation is to close the safety pin by means of a combined set of forceps and a tube on the end of which is a swivelled ring.

This instrument passes down the centre of the bronchoscope and the forceps, which are two pieces of spring steel opened and closed by the movement of the tube which encases them; grip the head of the pin while the ring is passed beneath it over the body of the pin and pulled towards the head, thus closing it.

It is then possible to remove the closed safety-pin through the tube without fear of tearing the wall of the lung.

Best-Dressed
Men Lack
"Guts"—

—RONALD COLMAN

Hollywood, May 25. The perennial "ten best dressed men in the world" would be better described as the "ten who lack guts," argues Ronald Colman, one of them, with a fine show of logic.

The modish English actor deals his own set of sartorial laurels to the "ten most courageously dressed men," and bases his decisions on ability to wear four alarm raiment with gusto and eclat.

"A well dressed man according to our normally hypocritical standards is one who dresses conservatively," observes Colman, "and nine times out of ten a conservatively dressed man is one who lacks the moral fibre to indulge his gaudy impulses.

"My own secret impulse is to thrust a long red feather in a tall silk hat, don a purple and white striped blazer over dazzling green shorts, and swagger down Fifth Avenue with all the grandeur of a cannibal chief. But do I do it? No, and why? Because I lack the nerve.

"I haven't even nerve enough to wear the flamboyant neckties that appeal to me. They look fine on other men but I just can't do it."

"Ed Horton, (Edward Everett), working with Colman in 'Lost Horizons', is another pseudo-conservative. He appears in public to the height of what is called 'good taste', but his closets are full of dashing sports clothes he has admired on handsome juveniles, but hasn't the courage to wear himself."

"Clive Brook and Warner Baxter are two ultra-conservatives who have their secret weaknesses away with all such. I give you: 'Lionel Stander, whose shirts speak for themselves.'

"Jack Oakie, who likes sweatshirts and does not fear to wear them whenever he chooses.

"Bing Crosby, who refuses to be stamped into dress clothes, and who affects checkered caps which are the envy of half Hollywood, (the male half).

"Lloyd Bacon, for his yellow pants and flaming jackets.

"Clark Gable, for some of the gauntlet sweaters ever seen by human eye.

"Pat O'Brien, whose topcoats can be heard a quarter of a mile.

"Joe E. Brown, fearless champion of the checkered suit.

"Chester Morris, for the brightest plaids in captivity.

"Victor McLaglen, for his sunburst neckties, and

"Lew Ayres, for combination sports outfit which not only stand out, but erupt." —United Press.

War Aircraft

PLANE THAT BROUGHT DOWN ZEPPELINRELICS FROM THE RHINE

Four aeroplanes and a seaplane have been transferred from store at the Cardington Airship base in Bedfordshire to the Imperial War Museum in London.

Together with bombs, machine-guns, aeroplane engines, and equipment of all kinds, they will form a new department at Lambeth where the history of the Royal Air Force (then the Royal Flying Corps) in the Great War will be represented with exhibits which have come direct from the battlefield.

All of the aeroplanes were flown during the War by pilots who performed deeds of heroism which will long live in history. Perhaps the most famous of the new Museum pieces is the Sopwith Camel. It was this machine, piloted by Lieutenant (now Squadron Leader) S. D. Culey, which brought down the Zeppelin "L85" in flames over the North Sea in August, 1918.

There were no aircraft carriers fitted with flying decks at that time. Consequently, the "Sopwith Camel" had to "take off" from a small barge, which was towed by a destroyer. When something approaching flying speed was reached the aeroplane was released from the small craft and went in search of the enemy airship. After its exploit of destruction the machine fell into the sea and was rescued by the destroyer.

JUTLAND SEAPLANE

Another interesting exhibit is the 225 h.p. Sunbeam Seaplane at 225 ft. Sanbeam Short seaplane flown by Lieutenant F. J. Rutland at Jutland.

This machine was engaged on reconnaissance duties and is the only one in existence to have taken part in a major engagement. There is, too, the experimental machine which was used with marked success in the defence of London against air raids.

Another interesting relic of the War was discovered on the IJine when British troops were in occupation of that zone. It is a wheel made entirely of wood, with a diameter of 8 ft., and is understood to be one of the landing-wheels of a giant German aeroplane. Made in a suburb of Cologne before America came into the War, the story is that the machine was intended to cross to America for propaganda purposes.

Three huge bombs were made during the War. They were known as the 2,000 lb. bombs, but the occasion to use them did not arise. They were the largest bombs made by any nation, and were intended for Essen. The Armistice came just in time to spare that town from their devastating effects. One of them, now quite harmless, will be on show when the Museum is opened in July.

It was a Canadian who brought down the famous German airman who was known as the "Red Baron." The engine was taken from his machine and forms one of the Air Force exhibits.

LEATHER SEA-
BOOTS GO

By A Naval Correspondent

The old heavy leather sea-boot is gradually passing out of use in the Royal Navy. The rubber Wellington is taking its place.

The change is not welcomed by seamen of the old school. They have been brought up to the leather sea-boot and they prefer it for two reasons. It grips better on wet steel decks and, in the event of a man being washed overboard it is easy to kick off.

But the need for anti-gas protection has brought the rubber boot into strong favour, and now a new type of sea-boot has been produced. This is dipped in latex and is a great improvement on the old built-up rubber boot which used to crack and peel at the joints with wear.

Anti-gas precautions have also led to something in a boom in oilskins. More oilskins and oilskin suits are being ordered at the present time than ever before.

In the old days ships carried oilskins for only a part of the crew. These were for the most part kept by the boatswains and issued to the seamen when required. Oilskins suits were only issued to boats' crews in bad weather and oilskins to lookouts and other men on watch. Now, however, oilskin suits must be carried for every man whose action station is in a part of the ship which could be reached by mustard gas.

ON YOUR GRAMOPHONE

Smiling Through the Gloom

BY

SPIKE HUGHES

WHY so many Hungarians should have grown suicidal on hearing "Gloomy Sunday" I can't imagine.

There seem to be so many other contemporary popular songs more obviously calculated to make the listener go away and end it all.

But that is how "Gloomy Sunday" affected the Hungarians, and the song became famous by publicity that is unusual even in these days.

The song has reached England, and, having lived through "The Music Good Round," we are able to take it.

The first recordings are beginning to trickle through, among them Albert Sandner (Columbia FB1500), Alfredo Hutch (Parlophone P444), George Boulangier and orchestra (Parlophone P457), Paul Robeson (H.M.V. B8423), Maurice Elwin (Rex 8773).

done? Are there no good songs that sell?

Maliza Korjus, on the other hand, may be in rather a spot. The colonel's story is limited, but surely not so limited that two Chopin nocturnes have to be transcribed and recorded have by H.M.V. (B8423).

People used to shout about the "jazzing of the classics." I am not sure this "vocal version" habit is not worse. It is not only the composers who are being sacrificed but fine artists as well, intended by nature for higher things.

ONE of the major oddities of this world is the habit of fitting words to tunes that were never intended to have words.

People will go to almost any trouble to find words for a tune that everybody knows already. However, it is good for trade.

Since we have had Kreisler's violin trifle, "Caprice Viennois," recorded by most things from the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra to a mouth organ, I couldn't imagine there was any way left in which it could be recorded. And yet...

Knowing the ways and means of recording companies there is probably a very sound financial reason for some of the recent titles and stunts put on the way by Elisabeth Schumann. But it is getting a little monotonous to find a great singer like this constantly singing second-rate songs.

Anybody making a first acquaintance with Schumann during the past year (since her record of "Ave Maria") might well be pardoned for not realising that she is one of the most exquisite singers of Schubert and Mozart in the world.

THE name Vocalion on a gramophone record label will make a number of us old-timers think hard about the good old days. It was on Vocalion that some of the most enterprising things the gramophone industry ever did were issued a decade and more ago.

Now Vocalion has reappeared, and how it is translated!

For Vocalion, made by Rex, is a special record series for a special public—the public which demands more and more that music should be "swing music."

One of the most ironic things about the gramophone industry to-day is that the two ostensibly least commercial records—those of classical and "swing" music—are the sturdiest sellers.

Even if you feel you do not like

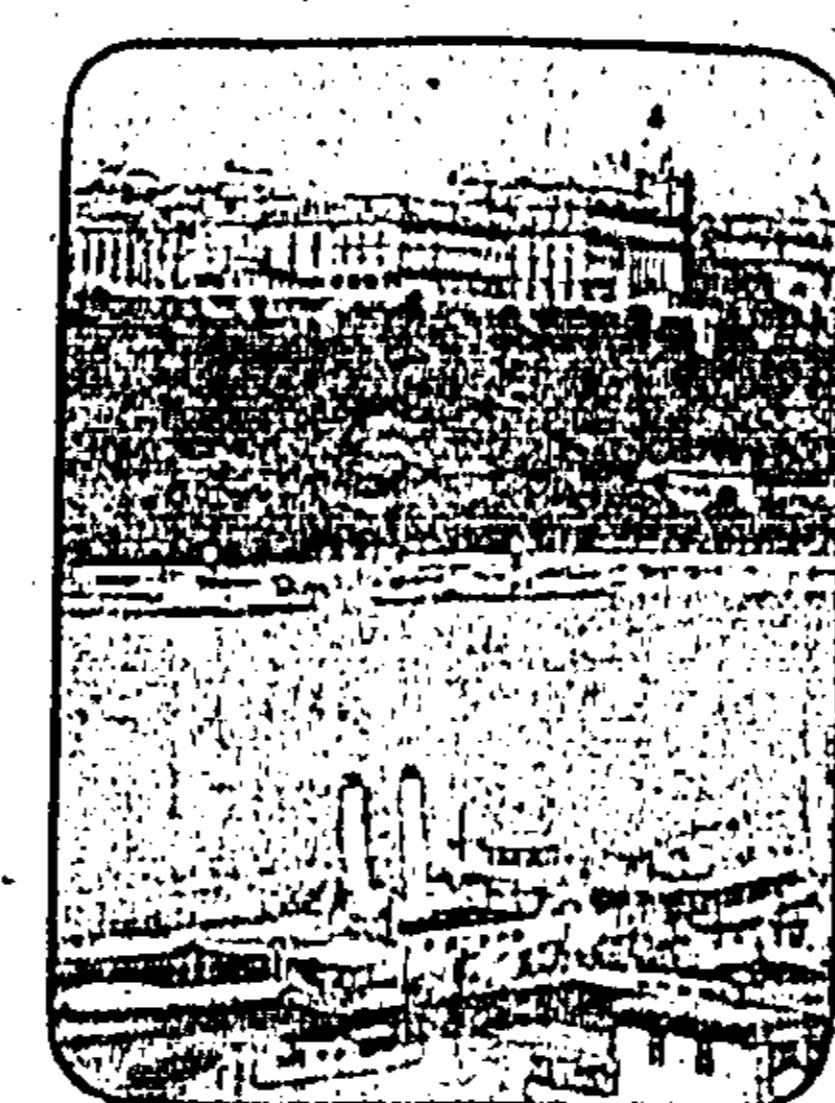

YOU SHOULD LIKE . . .

ELGAR. Enigma Variations (H.M.V. DB2000-62). A new recording by the B.B.C. Symphony Orchestra under Boult. It is good, but not good enough to dispense Elgar's own recording from the H.M.V. catalogue.

"THE TOWN TALKS" (H.M.V. BD345). Phyllis Stanley, ex-Cochran showgirl, and sometime Madonna in the last production of "The Miracle," makes her recording debut with Arthur Risco. In a song from her current show, "You have that extra Something."

DE MEISTERSINGER. Prelude. (H.M.V. G2009). Georg Szell and the London Philharmonic present the first sounds you heard of the 1936 Covent Garden Season.

SADDLE YOUR BLUES TO A

Budapest, the starting point of "Gloomy Sunday," which has now reached this country.

"swing" music, people who like music will take at once to the lyrical charm of "Nightfall" by Benny Carter and his Orchestra (Vocalion No 4).

Benny Carter is one of the finest musicians in all jazz; a young Negro from U.S.A. who plays most instruments extremely well, writes unusual tunes and scores them in an unusual and original way. You have probably heard his lovely "Blues in my Heart" broadcast by Henry Hall, for whom he is doing a lot of work just now.

There are three other records so far released in this Vocalion series—all good, especially "Night Wind" by Taff Jordan and the Mob, which includes Teddy Wilson, the great Negro pianist, and "Solitude" by Benny Goodman's Modernists, a collection of white musicians such as America never produced before.

Since these things matter to the fans, a leaflet is given away with these Vocalion records that tells you who plays what in each tune and why.

And how.

SWING. Song from "Public Nuisance No. 1." Maybe it's the theme song, it's popular enough already. Recorded by Ambrose (Decca F6010), Jay Wilbur (Rex 8739), Billy Cotton (Regal MR2043). The other boys are a bit slow on the uptake, considering.

Summer CAN'T LAST for Ever

... even in Kashmir, Garden of India. But this romantic story tells of the Summer of Love, which can last for ever!

—By MARGARET FERGUSON

CHAPTER FOUR

Phillida let a perfect smoke ring drift out of her rounded mouth and float up through the warm air, but her long lashes hid the brilliant gleam, the excitement in her eyes.

"Perhaps you're right," she said very softly. "Only—I'm not lolling anyone, not even you. You see, I'm up here for rest and quiet and escape. I've worked too hard for a long time. I don't want a soul to know me as anything more than Phillida, Phillida Lee—if you like."

"Phillida." He repeated the name slowly. "I can't think of any name that suits you better—not even your real one." And then was all confusion again. "I say—aren't you getting cold and oughtn't you to be getting back home?"

"Home," Phillida said, "is a funny little houseboat moored round the corner beyond the entrance to the garden. I've got a shikara waiting for me. Perhaps it might be as well to go to bed for a bit. Would you mind collecting the gramophone for me?"

She sat down on the grass and slipped on her sandals while he gathered up the small gramophone and two or three records.

He still felt that this was all a fantastic dream, that he would wake up in a second in his rather hard little bed, to find the sun in his eyes and Doggett, his big Alred, licking his face.

But when he looked up, the girl was still there, standing up and wrapping a light woolen shawl over her thin frock and with a nod and a smile she led the way down towards the garden entrance where two shikaras floated side by side manned by scurvy sleeping boatmen.

"Thank you," she said, as he stowed the things away and roused the boatmen with a prod or two. "I do hope I didn't spoil your solitary evening for you. I expect you wanted to be solitary if you stayed out here so late, and didn't want to have people turning on gramophones and dancing all over the place. I'm not really dotty. It's just that it's so perfect here that sometimes I can't help dancing."

"In spite of coming here for a rest?" And then with a rush he said: "Look here—mean, don't you get rather tired of being by yourself always? I do—only I don't want to be myself in and worry you. But if you would care to go for a row round the lake to-morrow afternoon—if it wouldn't bore you?"

She laughed softly, shaking back her hair that was getting damp with falling dew.

"Of course, it wouldn't! It will be fine to get away from Dr. Agnes and her lectures on diseases peculiar to Kashmir. That's what she's come up here to study. I'll bring a tea basket. Good night!"

She slipped into the shikara, gave a quick order and was rowed away down the narrow, platinum-bright channel of water that led to the lake.

As the paddles dipped rhythmically she lay back on the red cushions and stared at the stars, her eyes big and serious.

What had come over her this evening?

Was it the moonlight, the song of the nightingale, the fairylike atmosphere of the Shalimar garden?

Something had gone to her head, so that after dinner when Dr. Agnes retired early to bed she simply hadn't been able to sleep, or even sit still, had been urged to slip away secretly in the shikara, with her gramophone, to the nearby garden, and there to put on record and dance . . . dance over the wet grass as it had always been her dearest dream to dance.

And then this young man had walked in on her and, instead of coming down to earth and telling him the plain truth, she had to go on floating about in a romantic dream, fluttering her lashes at him, pretending she was a world-famous dancer incognito, that she was a creature of beauty, glamour and fame . . . But, to-night she really felt that she was! After all, he had believed her, had thought her dancing rather wonderful, had found her rather lovely. This was the new Phillida she had been walling to find, after leaving the old one parked in Calcutta. This Phillida was glamorous; had it in her to be a world-famous dancer; to attract a young man; to meet adventure.

The shikara paddled on across a sheet of splintered diamonds, and not far behind it came another, in which lay a young man, also staring at the stars, lost in a sort of trance.

Days followed of gay companionship, of exploring the lake and the waterways, fishing up green, willow-fringed, ice-cold mountain streams, of lunch, tea, supper picnics in all sorts of lovely, hidden spots. Neither of them could imagine how they had ever endured being alone.

Dr. Agnes, who had in her grumpy, abrupt way tried to be sociable and think of things for Phillida to do, found herself left in peace with her bugs and books. But her quick eyes noticed the change that was coming over the girl; how she was blossoming out into real beauty and attractiveness. Her pale skin began to glow with soft brown and rose tints; her eyes lost their shadowy, tired look; her hair curled and shone like burnished copper and all her movements were swift, graceful and lithe.

Phillida sat and studied herself in the small spotted mirror on her make-shift dressing table.

BANKRUPTCY COURT

PORTUGUESE CLERK APPLIES FOR DISCHARGE

An application for discharge as a bankrupt was brought by Mr. Joseph Mathias Pinto, a Portuguese clerk, before Mr. Justice J. J. Hayden, Acting Chief Justice, at the Bankruptcy Court yesterday afternoon.

Appearing for the petitioner, Mr. W. A. Mackinlay said his client was adjudged a bankrupt in January, 1933, and since then had been regularly paying $37 a month. The petition was brought as the result of a generous gesture on the part of his employer, the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China, who offered to advance him a further $1,100 in order to enable him to obtain his discharge. His employers were also prepared to place him on the permanent staff and in a more responsible position. The money, however, was advanced on condition that there was a reasonable hope that the petition would be granted.

Supporting the petition, Mr. J. B. Prentis, Official Receiver, said that the creditors had so far been paid 10 per cent., but with the addition of $1,100 a further dividend of 25 per cent. would be declared.

Petition Opposed.

The petition was opposed by Jassa Singh.

Addressing him, His Lordship said: "The most serious of the applicant were given at $3,110.20. You have already been paid ten per cent. The debtor's employers have paid half to the Official Receiver $1,100 which they advanced to the debtor with a view to obtain his discharge from bankruptcy. If he is discharged they may place him on the permanent staff of the bank. If I made the order, a further dividend of 25 per cent. will be declared within a very short time. Will that alter your attitude?—No, because I would receive altogether only 35 per cent. If I get half the amount I would be satisfied."

His Lordship: The object is overruled. You are one of the smallest creditors and yet you are the only one who opposed the petition. Considering the circumstances of the petition, I think it should be granted.

Subject to Alteration without Notice.

END OF STRIKE IN SIGHT

RENAULT FACTORY WINS AGREEMENT

PRELUDE TO SETTLEMENT

Paris, May 29.
An agreement has been reached between a delegation of workers and the directors of the Renault works, one of the big motor car and munition factories tied up by the "stay-in strike" of over 3,000 workers.

Altogether forty-five factories employing 80,000 men are affected by the strike.

The Renault agreement is considered a prelude to the end of trouble. The agreement followed numerous talks between members of the Government, the future Prime Minister, M. Leon Blum, and M. Jouhaux, leader of the Workers' Federation. —Reuter Special.

BRITISH DEFENCE PROGRESS

BIG FIRMS HELPING GOVERNMENT

London, May 29.
Replies to the debate raised on the House of Commons adjournment by Sir Edward Grigg, who supported by Sir Robert Horne, contended that the responsibility of the Government in relation to the manufacture and supply of defence requirements were so heavy and urgent as to warrant the appointment of an additional Minister, Sir Thomas Inskip, Minister for Co-ordination of Defence, argued that the change of responsible direction would not affect the rate of progress in meeting the problems in question.

Of progress already made, he gave as examples the arrangements concluded for the manufacture of air frames and air engines to the Air Ministry. An agreement had been reached with the Austin Company and with Messrs. Rootes, two of the largest motor undertakings in the country, to erect factories for the production of air frames and designs and lay-out, including plans for railings, diversions of roads and aerodromes, were already complete and specifications for tenders were about to be issued.

As to engines, seven firms of acknowledged eminence in the manufacture of internal combustion engines—Austin, Rootes, Daimler, Standard, Singer, Rover and Wolseley—were co-operating and had put forward a detailed scheme for securing the necessary output with the absolute minimum of delay. ### Good Friday Fire In India Church

SALESIAN LOSS

Vatican City, May 24.

The Catholic Cathedral of Shillong, a centre of missionary activity in north-eastern India, was destroyed by fire on Good Friday, April 10, according to a wire just received at the Vatican.

The telegram also adds that the Bishop's house and the new Salesian Seminary were destroyed in the fire. All the buildings were of wood but solidly built in earthquake-proof style. The loss is estimated at several hundred thousand rupees.

No one was injured in the fire but 200 persons have been deprived of living quarters. Sixty-five Salesian students and fifty novices lived in the seminary, almost all Indians who are completing their religious and theological training in the land of their future missionary career.

The cathedral, built before the world war by the German Salvatorian Fathers who staffed the missions of Assam at that time, was situated on a hill, flanked on one side by the clergy house, and on the other by the Bishop's residence.

The seminary, erected by Monsignor Methias, the present Archbishop of Madras, was a few minutes' walk below the cathedral. —United Press.

SMALLEST MOVIE CAMERA

BEING INTRODUCED IN HONGKONG

Universally known as the World's smallest movie camera, the new Filmo Straight Eight is being introduced to Hongkong by the Bell & Howell Company, of Chicago, manufacturers for the past 28 years of the movie equipment used in producing most of the world's professional photoplays.

This new personal camera, which is distinguished by its quality, compactness and ease of use, takes 30-foot spools of 8 mm fine-grain panchromatic movie film, costs only $3.95 and this includes lensing and post paid return, ready to project. This film is long enough for about fifteen movie scenes, thereby bringing new economy and simplicity to the making of quality personal movies. It costs less than a small snapshot camera, yet it produces vivid, true-to-life motion pictures.

The size of the camera is only 1 1/2 by 3 by 5 inches, it is so small and so light (only 1 1/2 pounds), that you'll never be conscious of having it with you ... until you want to use it. Having no sprockets to thread, it is so easy to load and to use that even the least mechanically-minded quickly become proficient. And yet it is so expertly designed and so sturdily constructed by Bell & Howell, engineers and craftsmen, that, on home-sized screens, you could never distinguish its movies from those made with a fine 16 mm camera.

Taking movies with the Filmo 8 mm camera with its fast F:2.5 lens is easy—anyone can get good results right from his first reel. You merely set the lens as directed by the built-in exposure calculator, find your subject in the eyepiece viewfinder, and press the starting button. What you see, you get!
